

AMATA Arts Centre Zero Tolerance Policy

Falmouth University's AMATA Arts Centre operates a zero tolerance policy towards anybody who commits an act of violence against any member of staff, student or other visitor to the premises, or behaves in such a way that any such person fear for their security and safety. Any such incidents will be reported to Penryn Campus Security and the Police where appropriate.

Arts Centre Management reserve the right to refuse entry to anybody in breach of the above and in line with the AMATA Arts Centre Terms and Conditions.
